Item 8.01 Other Events.

On September 4, 2009, Fannie Mae (formally known as the Federal National Mortgage Association) announced that it had received notice on September 3, 2009 from the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE") that the company has returned to compliance with the NYSE's minimum share price continued listing requirement because the average share price of Fannie Mae's common stock during the 30 trading days ended on August 31, 2009, and its closing share price on that date, both were more than $1.00.

As a result, the NYSE will discontinue dissemination of the ".BC" indicator on the NYSE website and exchange listing.

Item 9.01 Financial Statements and Exhibits.

A copy of the news release announcing Fannie Mae's return to compliance with the NYSE's minimum share price continued listing requirement is attached as Exhibit 99.1 to this report and incorporated herein by reference.

SIGNATURES

Pursuant to the requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the registrant has duly caused this report to be signed on its behalf by the undersigned hereunto duly authorized.

Fannie Mae Regains Compliance with NYSE Minimum Price Listing Standard

WASHINGTON, DC — Fannie Mae (FNM/NYSE) yesterday received notice from the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) that the company has regained compliance with the NYSE's minimum price standard for continued listing of its common stock.

On November 12, 2008, the NYSE notified Fannie Mae that it had failed to satisfy one of the NYSE's standards for continued listing of its common stock because the average closing price of its common stock during the 30 preceding trading days had been less than $1.00 per share. Applicable NYSE rules and procedures provided the company with a cure period that would expire on October 15, 2009, as a result of the NYSE's temporary suspension of its minimum price listing requirement earlier this year.

Fannie Mae regained compliance with the NYSE's minimum price listing standard after its closing share price on August 31, 2009 and its average closing price for the 30 days of trading that ended on August 31, 2009 were both at least $1.00.
